The phone stops being the bottleneck.

AI Chauffeur answers your phone line in your company name, quotes from your rate sheet, books the trip and puts it in your CRM. It is built around your company: your rates, your fleet, your rules.

One call, start to finish

- Answers in your company name
  Overflow, nights and weekends, or every call. Your number stays the same.
- Gets the caller to the right place
  Reservations, dispatch, billing, corporate accounts, affiliates.
- Quotes from your rate sheet
  Your vehicles, your rates, your minimums.
- Takes the whole reservation
  Reads it back to the caller, then books it.
- Booked. In your CRM.
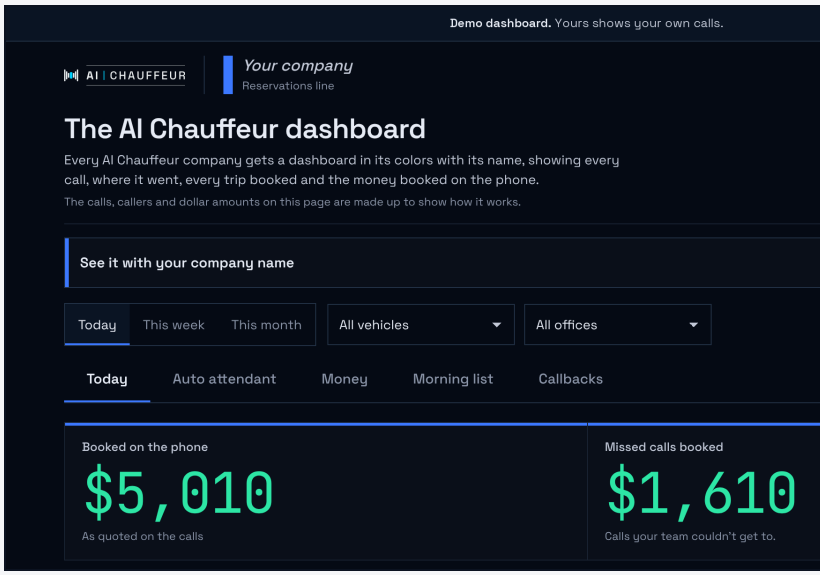
  Your team gets the trip sheet, the recording and the transcript.

The caller asks for a person
Live handoff to your team. Your team hears who is calling and what they need before the caller is put through.



Your dashboard. Every call, the recording and the transcript, in your colors.

Answers every call.

In your company name. It backs up your team on missed calls, daytime overflow, nights and weekends, or it runs the line 24/7.

Quotes your rates.

From your rate sheet: by hour, zone or mile, with your minimums and rates for late nights and holidays. It never makes up a price.

Books the trip.

It takes the whole reservation, picks the vehicle from your fleet that fits the passengers and bags, and reads the trip back to the caller.

Puts it in your CRM.

Your team gets the trip sheet, the recording and the word-for-word transcript right after the call.

Example

One airport pickup. 1:09 on the phone.

AI CHAUFFEUR
Corbel Black Car, reservations.

CALLER
Hi. I land at O'Hare tonight and need a car to Evanston. What's that run?

AI CHAUFFEUR
A sedan from O'Hare to Evanston is $115, plus tolls and gratuity. Which airline and flight?

CALLER
United 1242. It lands at 9:40.

▶ Hear this call on the dashboard

AIC-E912-8264	BOOKED
Pickup	O'Hare, tonight
Drop-off	1820 Hinman Ave, Evanston
Rate quoted	$115 + tolls, gratuity
Flight	United 1242, lands 9:40 PM
Passengers	1, with 3 bags
Chauffeur note	Golf bag
Meet	Inside, baggage claim, name sign

In your CRM. The recording and the word-for-word transcript go with it.

The callers and trips shown in this overview are made up to show how it works.

You pick the hours
Every call, after hours, or only the calls your team can't get to.

Your number stays the same
Your line forwards to AI Chauffeur for the hours you pick. Nothing to install.

Keep your software
Limo Anywhere, FASTTRAK, Moovs, Livery Coach, GNet, Hudson, SantaCruz, LimoExpress, A to Z Dispatch, RideBits.

Every call goes to the right place.

One number for your whole company. AI Chauffeur answers in your company name, asks what the caller needs and sends the call where it belongs, so reservations only gets reservation calls.

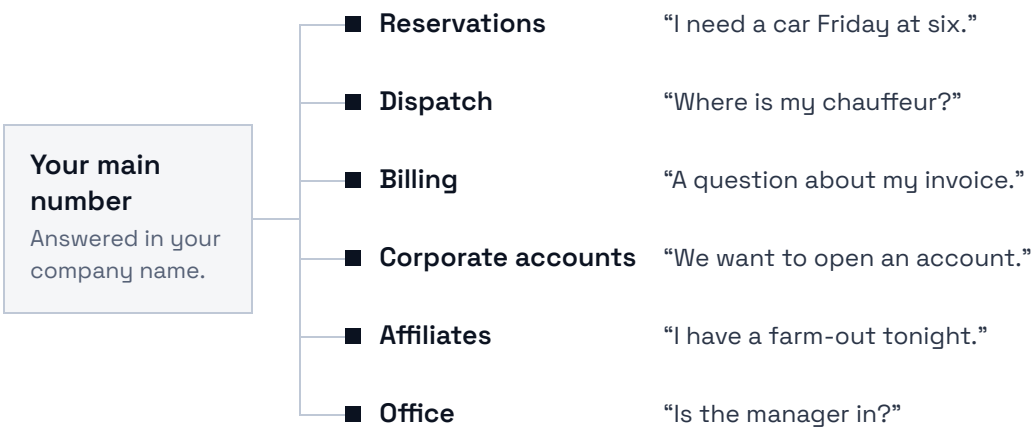
Built around your company
Your departments, your offices and your cities.

The right people get the call
Billing, affiliates and corporate accounts go to the people who handle them.

You see where every call went
Your dashboard shows each department and the calls it got.

Example

One main number. Six places a call can go.



Six departments here. Yours can be two, or twenty, across all your offices and cities.

More than 50 languages

It answers in English, then switches and keeps going when the caller speaks another language. Your team still gets the trip sheet in English.

Spanish	Chinese	Japanese	Portuguese
Hindi	German	Korean	French
Italian	Arabic	and more than 40 others

The auto attendant and languages are options. Built for your company and quoted separately.

Your team knows who is calling before they say hello.

A caller who asks for a person gets one. AI Chauffeur rings the person you choose, tells them in one short sentence who is on the line and what they need, then puts the caller through.

You choose who gets the call
The manager, dispatch, billing or the owner.

Set up your way
A short rundown first, or straight through. You decide what your team hears.

The right call, right away
An emergency, a trip update or a request for the manager goes to the person you pick.

Example

A regular customer asks for dispatch

The caller asks

"Can I talk to dispatch? It's about tonight's pickup."

Your team hears this first

> "Leah is on the line about tonight's 7:30 pickup. She wants to add a stop."

Spoken to the person who answers, before the caller is put through.

The caller is put through

The handoff shows on your dashboard.

And if nobody picks up

It rings your person

No answer.

It comes back to the caller

> "Dispatch can't pick up right now. I'll take a message and get it to them."

Your team gets it

On your morning list, with the recording.

You paid for that lead. It gets a call right away.

When someone fills out the lead form on your Google ad or the quote form on your website, AI Chauffeur calls them back right away. It quotes from your rate sheet, books the trip and puts it in your CRM.

Google ad lead forms
The form on your ad comes straight to AI Chauffeur.

Website quote forms
Your quote page, or a web page we build for you.

Open quotes
People who got a price and have not booked yet get a call back.

It asks first
Every form asks for the OK to call and text. No OK, no call.

Example

A wedding quote on a Saturday night

9:14 PM	The form comes in Wedding, June 12. Stretch limousine, 5 hours. From your Google ad.
Right away	AI Chauffeur calls her back It quotes from your rate sheet and answers her questions.
On that call	Booked. In your CRM. Your team gets the trip sheet, the recording and the transcript.

No answer? The follow-up keeps going. A seven-day plan, for example:

DAY 1	DAY 2	DAY 3	DAY 4	DAY 5	DAY 6	DAY 7
■■	■	■	□	■	□	■
Right away, and again that evening	Morning call	Call, and the quote by text	No call	Afternoon call	No call	Last call

It stops the moment they book or say no thanks. Calls go out only in the hours you choose.

Built by an operator who ran lead follow-up in phone rooms for 25 years.

An option. Built for your company and quoted separately.

Give it a list. It makes the calls.

AI Chauffeur calls your own customers and leads who agreed to hear from you, one after another, and books the ones who are ready. Your team sees who booked, who wants a call back and who said no thanks.

Past customers
Before prom, the holidays and the big conventions.

Open quotes
Everyone who got a price and has not booked yet.

Tomorrow's pickups
A call to confirm the time and the place.

How a campaign runs

You send the list
A spreadsheet, or straight from your CRM.

You approve it
You hear what it says before one call goes out.

It makes the calls
One after another, in the hours you set.

You get the results
Booked trips in your CRM. Call backs on your morning list.

Example

Last spring's prom customers, called in February

Megan	Prom, stretch limousine	BOOKED	Prom night, May 15. In your CRM.
Raj	Prom, Sprinter	CALL BACK	On Thursday's morning list.
Tess	Prom, Hummer limousine	QUOTED	Got the price by text.
Yuki	Prom, limo bus	NO THANKS	Taken off the list.
Leah	Prom, Sprinter	NO ANSWER	It calls again tomorrow.

> It calls your own customers and leads who agreed to hear from you. It does not cold call. Anyone who says stop comes off the list, and calls go out only in the hours you set.

An option. Built for your company and quoted separately.

Keep leads out of your reservation software.

If you run SantaCruz, Limo Anywhere or FASTTRAK, your reservation software is for trips, not for ad leads and call lists. We set up a separate CRM for your leads and follow-up, plus web pages and forms that send leads to it. Booked trips go into your reservation software.

A CRM for your leads

Every form, ad lead and call list in one place, with what happened on each call.

Web pages and forms

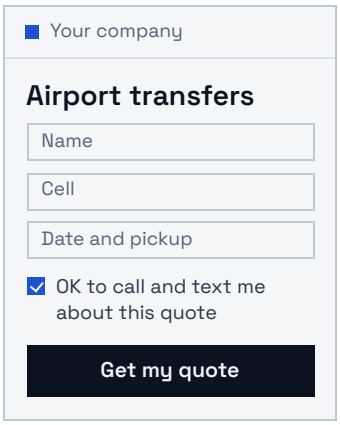
An airport page, a corporate accounts page, an hourly charter page. Each has a quote form.

It runs the follow-up

New leads get the call right away. Call campaigns run from the same lists.

Example

From the ad to the booked trip



1. Someone taps your ad and fills out the form on your web page.
2. The lead lands in your CRM and gets a call right away.
3. Once booked, the trip goes into your reservation software.

NEW LEAD	CALLED	QUOTED	BOOKED	YOUR SOFTWARE
Google ad Airport transfer	Website form Wedding, 5 hours	Call list Prom, Sprinter	Google ad Corporate account	The booked trip goes into your reservation software.

One team for your calls, your leads and your follow-up.

An option. Set up for your company and quoted separately.

A full custom build around your company. Not a generic chat bot.

We load your fleet, your rates, your service area and the way your office answers the phone. Then we run test call after test call and tune it.

Setup page
Your setup questions are on a web page. Add notes or change an answer any time.

We build it
Your fleet, rate sheet, service area and the way you handle calls.

We test it
Test call after test call, tuned each time.

You test it
You and your staff hear it before it goes live.

Start small
Nights, weekends or missed calls first. Give it more calls when you are ready.

What it runs on

The providers' own published figures.

99.9%
uptime commitment for the voice system. Hosted on Amazon Web Services.

99.95%
availability commitment for the phone network the lines run on.

24/7
monitoring of the voice system, around the clock.

SOC 2
Type II audit. Its security is checked by outside auditors.

- Backups built in. If the main voice or the AI behind it has trouble, a backup takes over.
- A backup line. If AI Chauffeur ever can't pick up, the call goes straight to your team.
